Consequently, the Honorable Stephen R. Bradley was elected President of the Senate, pro tempore.

The credentials of the Honorable Mr. Plumer, appointed a Senator by the state of New Hampshire, to supply the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the Honorable James Sheafe, Esq. were read; and the oath prescribed by law was administered to him by the President.

On motion,

Ordered, That the Secretary wait on the President of the United States, and acquaint him that a quorum of the Senate is assembled, and that, in the absence of the Vice President, they have elected the Honorable Stephen R. Bradley President of the Senate pro tempore.

On motion,

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled and ready to proceed to business, and that, in the absence of the Vice President, they have elected the Honorable Stephen R. Bradley President of the Senate pro tempore.

On motion,

Resolved, That each Senator be supplied, during the present session, with three such newspapers, printed in any of the states, as he may choose; provided that the same be furnished at the rate usual for the annual charge of such papers.

On motion,

Resolved, That James Mathers, Sergeant-at-Arms and Doorkeeper to the Senate, be, and he is hereby, authorized to employ one additional assistant and two horses, for the purpose of performing such services as are usually required of the doorkeeper to the Senate; and that the sum of twenty-eight dollars be allowed him weekly, for the purpose, during the session, and for twenty days after.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert, in the absence of their Clerk:

Mr. President: A quorum of the House of Representatives has assembled, and is proceeding on the public business. And he withdrew.

On motion,

Ordered, That Messrs. Wright and T. Foster be a committee on the part of the Senate, together with such committee as the House of Representatives may appoint on their part, to wait on the President of the United States and notify him that a quorum of the two houses is assembled, and ready to receive any communications that he may be pleased to make to them.

Ordered, That the Secretary desire the concurrence of the House of Representatives herein.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives agree to the appointment of a joint committee to wait on the President of the United States, and have appointed a committee on their part. And he withdrew.

Mr. Wright reported, from the joint committee last mentioned, that they had accordingly waited on the President of the United States, and that the President of the United States informed the committee that he would make a communication to the two houses, by message, to-morrow.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lambert:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives have resolved that two chaplains, of different denominations, be appointed to Congress for the present session, one by each house, who shall interchange weekly. And he withdrew.

Whereupon,

Resolved, That the Senate do concur in the resolution last mentioned.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives therewith.

On motion,

It was agreed to proceed to the choice of a chaplain on the part of the Senate, and the ballots having been collected and counted, the whole number was 17, of which 9 is the majority.

Doctor Gantt had	-	-	-	10,
M'Cormick	-	-	-	4,
Priestley	-	-	-	2,
Balch	-	-	-	1.

So it was

Resolved, That the Reverend Doctor Gantt be the chaplain to Congress on the part of the Senate, during the present session.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint the House of Representatives therewith.

On motion,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1802.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

When we assemble together, fellow-citizens, to consider the state of our beloved country, our just attentions are first drawn to those pleasing circumstances which mark the goodness of that Being from whose favor they flow, and the large measure of thankfulness we owe for his bounty. Another year has come around, and finds us still blessed with peace and friendship abroad; law, order, and religion, at home; good affection and harmony with our Indian neighbors; our burthens lightened, yet our income sufficient for the public wants, and the produce of the year great beyond example. These, fellow-citizens, are the circumstances under which we meet: and we remark, with special satisfaction, those which, under the smiles of Providence, result from the skill, industry, and order, of our citizens, managing their own affairs in their own way, and for their own use, unembarrassed by too much regulation, unoppressed by fiscal exactions.

On the restoration of peace in Europe, that portion of the general carrying trade which had fallen to our share during the war, was abridged by the returning competition of the belligerent powers. This was to be expected, and was just. But, in addition, we find in some parts of Europe monopolizing discriminations, which, in the form of duties, tend effectually to prohibit the carrying thither our own produce in our own vessels. From existing amities, and a spirit of justice, it is hoped that friendly discussion will produce a fair and adequate reciprocity. But should false calculations of interest defeat our hope, it rests with the legislature to decide whether they will meet inequalities abroad with countervailing inequalities at home, or provide for the evil in any other way.

It is with satisfaction I lay before you an act of the British parliament anticipating this subject so far as to authorize a mutual abolition of the duties and countervailing duties, permitted under the treaty of 1794. It shows, on their part, a spirit of justice and friendly accommodation, which it is our duty and our interest to cultivate with all nations. Whether this would produce a due equality in the navigation between the two countries is a subject for your consideration.

Another circumstance which claims attention, as directly affecting the very source of our navigation, is the defect or the evasion of the law providing for the return of seamen, and particularly of those belonging to vessels sold abroad. Numbers of them, discharged in foreign ports, have been thrown on the hands of our consuls, who, to rescue them from the dangers into which their distresses might plunge them, and save them to their country, have found it necessary, in some cases, to return them at the public charge.

The cession of the Spanish province of Louisiana to France, which took place in the course of the late war, will, if carried into effect, make a change in the aspect of our foreign relations, which will doubtless have just weight in any deliberations of the legislature connected with that subject.

There was reason, not long since, to apprehend that the warfare in which we were engaged with Tripoli might be taken up by some other of the Barbary powers. A reinforcement, therefore, was immediately ordered to the vessels already there. Subsequent information, however, has removed these apprehensions for the present. To secure our commerce in that sea with the smallest force competent, we have supposed it best to watch strictly the harbor of Tripoli. Still, however, the shallowness of their coast, and the want of smaller vessels on our part, has permitted some cruisers to escape unobserved; and to one of these an American vessel unfortunately fell a prey. The captain, one American seamen, and two others of color, remain prisoners with them; unless exchanged under an agreement formerly made with the bashaw, to whom, on the faith of that, some of his captive subjects had been restored.

The convention with the state of Georgia has been ratified by their legislature, and a repurchase from the Creeks has been consequently made of a part of the Talasscee country. In this purchase has been also comprehended a part of the lands within the fork of Oconee and Oakmulgee rivers. The particulars of the contract will be laid before Congress so soon as they shall be in a state for communication.

In order to remove every ground of difference possible with our Indian neighbors, I have proceeded in the work of settling with them and marking the boundaries between us. That with the Choctaw nation is fixed in one part, and will be through the whole within a short time. The country to which their title had been extinguished before the revolution is sufficient to receive a very respectable population, which Congress will probably see the expediency of encouraging so soon as the limits shall be declared. We are to view this position as an outpost of the United States, surrounded by strong neighbors, and distant from its support. And how far that monopoly which prevents population should here be guarded against, and actual habitation made a condition of the continuance of title will be for your consideration. A prompt settlement, too, of all existing rights and claims within this territory presents itself as a preliminary operation.

In that part of the Indiana territory which includes Vincennes, the lines settled with the neighboring tribes fix the extinction of their title at a breadth of twenty-four leagues from east to west, and about the same length, parallel with and including the Wabash. They have also ceded a tract of four miles square, including the salt springs, near the mouth of that river.

In the department of finance it is with pleasure I inform you that the receipts of external duties for the last twelve months have exceeded those of any former year, and that the ratio of increase has been also greater than usual. This has enabled us to answer all the regular exigencies of government, to pay from the Treasury within one year upwards of eight millions of dollars, principal and interest, of the public debt, exclusive of upwards of one million paid by the sale of bank stock, and making in the whole a reduction of nearly five millions and an half of principal, and to have now in the Treasury four millions and a half of dollars, which are in a course of application to the further discharge of debt and current demands. Experience, too, so far, authorizes us to believe, if no extraordinary event supervenes, and the expenses which will be actually incurred shall not be greater than were contemplated by Congress at their last session, that we shall not be disappointed in the expectations then formed. But, nevertheless, as the effect of peace on the amount of duties is not yet fully ascertained, it is the more necessary to practise every useful economy, and to incur no expense which may be avoided without prejudice.

The collection of the internal taxes having been completed in some of the states, the officers employed in it are of course out of commission. In others they will be so shortly; but in a few, where the arrangements for the direct tax had been retarded, it will be some time before the system is closed. It has not yet been thought necessary to employ the agent authorized by an act of the last session, for transacting business in Europe relative to debts and loans. Nor have we used the power, confided by the same act, of prolonging the foreign debt by re-loans, and of redeeming, instead thereof, an equal sum of the domestic debt. Should, however, the difficulties of remittance on so large a scale render it necessary at any time, the power shall be executed, and the money thus unemployed abroad shall, in conformity with that law, be faithfully applied here in an equivalent extinction of domestic debt. When effects so salutary result from the plans you have already sanctioned; when, merely by avoiding false objects of expense, we are able, without a direct tax, without internal taxes, and without borrowing, to make large and effectual payments towards the discharge of our public debt, and the emancipation of our posterity from that mortal canker; it is an encouragement, fellow-citizens, of the highest order, to proceed as we have begun, in substituting economy for taxation, and in pursuing what is useful for a nation placed as we are, rather than what is practised by others under different circumstances. And whensoever we are destined to meet events which shall call forth all the energies of our countrymen, we have the firmest reliance on those energies, and the comfort of leaving for calls like these the extraordinary resources of loans and internal taxes. In the mean time, by payments of the principal of our debt, we are liberating, annually, portions of the external taxes, and forming from them a growing fund, still further to lessen the necessity of recurring to extraordinary resources.

The usual account of receipts and expenditures for the last year, with an estimate of the expenses of the ensuing one, will be laid before you by the Secretary of the Treasury.

No change being deemed necessary in our military establishment, an estimate of its expenses for the ensuing year, on its present footing, as also of the sums to be employed in fortifications, and other objects within that department, has been prepared by the Secretary of War, and will make a part of the general estimates which will be presented you.

Considering that our regular troops are employed for local purposes, and that the militia is our general reliance for great and sudden emergencies, you will doubtless think this institution worthy of a review, and give it those improvements of which you find it susceptible.

Estimates for the naval department, prepared by the Secretary of the Navy, for another year, will, in like manner, be communicated with the general estimates. A small force in the Mediterranean will still be necessary to restrain the Tripoline cruisers: and the uncertain tenure of peace with some other of the Barbary powers may eventually require that force to be augmented. The necessity of procuring some smaller vessels for that service will raise the estimate: but the difference in their maintenance will soon make it a measure of economy.

Presuming it will be deemed expedient to expend annually a convenient sum towards providing the naval defence which our situation may require, I cannot but recommend that the first appropriations for that purpose may go to the saving what we already possess. No cares, no attentions, can preserve vessels from rapid decay, which lie in water and exposed to the sun. These decays require great and constant repairs, and will consume, if continued, a great portion of the moneys destined to naval purposes. To avoid this waste of our resources, it is proposed to add to our navy yard here a dock, within which our present vessels may be laid up dry, and under cover from the sun. Under these circumstances, experience proves that works of wood will remain scarcely at all affected by time. The great abundance of running water which this situation possesses, at heights far above the level of the tide, if employed as is practised for lock navigation, furnishes the means for raising and laying up our vessels on a dry and sheltered bed. And should the measure be found useful here, similar depositories for laying up, as well as for building and repairing vessels, may hereafter be undertaken at other navy yards offering the same means. The plans and estimates of the work, prepared by a person of skill and experience, will be presented to you without delay; and from this it will be seen that scarcely more than has been the cost of one vessel is necessary to save the whole, and that the annual sum to be employed towards its completion may be adapted to the views of the legislature as to naval expenditure.

To cultivate peace, and maintain commerce and navigation in all their lawful enterprises; to foster our fisheries as nurseries of navigation and for the nurture of man, and protect the manufactures adapted to our circumstances; to preserve the faith of the nation by an exact discharge of its debts and contracts, expend the public money with the same care and economy we would practise with our own, and impose on our citizens no unnecessary burthens; to keep, in all things, within the pale of our constitutional powers, and cherish the federal union as the only rock of safety; these, fellow-citizens, are the landmarks by which we are to guide ourselves in all our proceedings. By continuing to make these the rule of our action, we shall endear to our countrymen the true principles of their constitution, and promote an union of sentiment and of action, equally auspicious to their happiness and safety. On my part you may count on a cordial concurrence in every measure for the public good; and on all the information I possess which may enable you to discharge to advantage the high functions with which you are invested by your country.

TH. JEFFERSON.

December 15th, 1802.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

On motion,

Ordered, That five hundred copies of the message of the President of the United States, together with one hundred copies of each of the papers referred to in the message, be printed for the use of the Senate.

Ordered, That it lie for consideration.

On motion,

That it be printed for the use of the Senate,

It was agreed that the consideration of this motion be postponed.

The other message was read, as follows:

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

I enclose a report of the Secretary of War, stating the trading houses established in the Indian territories, the progress which has been made, in the course of the last year, in settling and marking boundaries with the different tribes, the purchases of lands recently made from them, and the prospect of further progress in marking boundaries, and in new extinguishments of title in the year to come; for which some appropriations of money will be wanting.

To this I have to add, that, when the Indians ceded to us the salt springs on the Wabash, they expressed a hope that we would so employ them as to enable them to procure there the necessary supplies of salt. Indeed, it would be the most proper and acceptable form in which the annuity could be paid which we propose to give them for the cession. These springs might, at the same time, be rendered eminently serviceable to our western inhabitants, by using them as the means of counteracting the monopolies of supplies of salt, and of reducing the price in that country to a just level. For these purposes a small appropriation would be necessary to meet the first expenses, after which they should support themselves, and repay those advances. These springs are said to possess the advantage of being accompanied with a bed of coal.

TH. JEFFERSON.

January 18, 1803.

The report referred to was read.

Ordered, That the message and report lie for consideration.

Mr. J. Mason, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 20th of December last, the petition of Sarah Fletcher and Jane Ingraham, made report; which was read.

The Senate took into consideration the report of the committee on the petition of Sarah Fletcher and Jane Ingraham.

On motion,

Ordered, That the report be recommitted to the original committee, with an instruction further to consider and report thereon, by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Breckinridge, from the committee to whom was referred, on the 7th inst. the motion to inquire whether any, and, if any, what, legislative measures may be necessary for admitting the state of Ohio into the Union, or for extending to that state the laws of the United States, made report; which was read.

Ordered, That it lie for consideration.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

I now lay before Congress the annual account of the fund established for defraying the contingent charges of government. A single article of 1440 dollars, paid for bringing home seventy-two seamen, discharged in foreign ports from vessels sold abroad, is the only expenditure from that fund: leaving an unexpended balance of 18,560 dollars in the Treasury.

TH. JEFFERSON.

The Senate took into consideration the amendment of the House of Representatives to their amendment to the bill, entitled "An act making appropriations for the military establishment of the United States, in the year one thousand eight hundred and three;" and

Ordered, That the consideration thereof be postponed

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Lewis, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House Representatives:

I transmit a report by the superintendent of the city of Washington, on the affairs of the city committed to his care. By this you will perceive that the re-sales of lots prescribed by an act of the last session of Congress, did not produce a sufficiency to pay the debt to Maryland to which they are appropriated; and as it was evident that the sums necessary for the interest and instalments due to that state could not be produced by a sale of the other public lots, without an unwarrantable sacrifice of the property, the deficiencies were of necessity drawn from the Treasury of the United States.

The office of the surveyor for the city, created during the former establishment, being of indispensable necessity, it has been continued: and to that of the superintendent, substituted instead of the board of commissioners at the last session of Congress, no salary was annexed by law. These offices being permanent, I have supposed it more agreeable to principle that their salaries should be fixed by the legislature, and therefore have assigned them none. Their services to be compensated are from the 1st day of June last.

The marshal of the district of Columbia has, as directed by law, caused a jail to be built in the city of Washington. I inclose his statements of the expenses already incurred, and of what remains to be finished. The portion actually completed has rendered the situation of the persons confined much more comfortable and secure than it has been heretofore.

TH. JEFFERSON.

January 24, 1803.

The message and papers therein referred to were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

On motion, that it be

Resolved, That — copies of a report made by the Secretary of State in 1793, to both Houses of Congress, respecting the nature and extent of the privileges and restrictions of the commercial intercourse of the United States with foreign nations, be printed for the use of the Senate:

It was agreed that this motion should lie for consideration.

The bill, entitled "An act for incorporating an insurance company in the city of Washington," was read the second time.

Ordered, That it be referred to Messrs. Nicholas, J. Mason, and Tracy, to consider and report thereon.

On motion,

Resolved, That so much of the message of the President of the United States of the 18th instant, as relates to the salt springs on the Wabash, be referred to a special committee, with leave to report by bill or otherwise, and that Messrs. Franklin, Breckinridge, and Anderson, be the committee.

On motion, that it be

Resolved, That so much of the letter of the Secretary of War which accompanied the message of the President of the United States of the 18th instant, as relates to the renewal of the act, entitled "An act for establishing trading houses with the Indian tribes," be referred to a special committee, with leave to report by bill or otherwise:

It was agreed that this motion should lie for consideration.

After progress in the Executive business,

The Senate adjourned to 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1803.

The Honorable James Ross, from the state of Pennsylvania, attended.

The Vice President communicated the report of the Postmaster General, in conformity with the 30th section of the act to establish the post office; which was read.

Ordered, That it be printed for the use of the Senate.

The motion made yesterday that the report of the Secretary for the Department of State, made in 1793, on the privileges and restrictions of commerce, be printed, was resumed; and the blank filled with the words two hundred, and the motion was agreed to as follows:

Resolved, That two hundred copies of a report made by the Secretary of State in 1793, to both Houses of Congress, respecting the nature and extent of the privileges and restrictions of the commercial intercourse of the United States with foreign nations, be printed for the use of the Senate.

The Senate resumed the second reading of the bill for the relief of Sarah Fletcher and Jane Ingraham; and,

Ordered, That it lie for consideration, and that it be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. Howard presented the petition of William Marbury, Robert Townsend Hooe, and Dennis Ramsay, praying that the Secretary of the Senate may be directed to deliver them a certified copy of their nominations to be justices of the peace for the counties of Washington and Alexandria; and the petition was read.

Whereupon, a motion was made, that it be

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to give an attested copy of the proceedings of the Senate of the 2d and 3d of March, 1801, so far as they relate to the nomination and appointment of William Marbury, Robert T. Hooe, and Dennis Ramsay, as justices of the peace for the counties of Washington and Alexandria, in the territory of Columbia, on the application of them or either of them; and

It was agreed that this motion should lie for consideration.

Mr. Ross presented the memorial of the chamber of commerce of the city of Philadelphia, signed Thomas Fitzsimons, president, stating that damages had been sustained by the merchants of that city, from a too rigid construction, by the officers of the revenue, of the act, entitled "An act concerning the registering and recording of ships or vessels, and praying the interposition of Congress for their relief; and the memorial was read.

That the petitioners were judges of certain courts, inferior to the supreme court, constituted by an act of the 13th of February, 1801, and duly commissioned to hold their offices during good behavior.

That, while holding and exercising their offices, an act was passed on the 8th of March last, to repeal the said act of the 13th February, 1801, and transfer the duties of the said judges from them to others.

That a question has arisen whether, by reason of the premises, the said petitioners be deprived of their offices.

That this question, depending on the construction of the laws and constitution of the United States, is not properly cognizable by the Senate.

The committee, therefore, conceive it improper either to give reasons or express opinions; but they consider it as a question of high and serious import, and believe that a speedy investigation and final decision is of great moment to the commonwealth.

Wherefore, they submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to cause an information, in the nature of a quo warranto, to be filed by the Attorney General against Richard Basset, one of the said petitioners, for the purpose of deciding judicially on their claims. And

On the question, Will the Senate adopt this report?

It passed in the negative, { Yeas 13,

Resolved, That the United States have an indisputable right to the free navigation of the river Mississippi, and to a convenient place of deposite for their produce and merchandise in the island of New Orleans.

That the late infraction of such, their unquestionable right, is an aggression hostile to their honor and interest.

That it does not consist with the dignity or safety of this Union to hold a right so important by a tenure so uncertain.

That it materially concerns such of the American citizens as dwell on the western waters, and is essential to the union, strength, and prosperity of these states, that they obtain complete security for the full and peaceable enjoyment of such their absolute right.

That the President be authorized to take immediate possession of such place or places, in the said island, or the adjacent territories, as he may deem fit and convenient, for the purposes aforesaid; and to adopt such other measures for obtaining that complete security as to him in his wisdom shall seem meet.

That he be authorized to call into actual service any number of the militia of the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, or of the Mississippi territory, which he may think proper, not exceeding fifty thousand, and to employ them, together with the military and naval forces of the Union, for effecting the objects above mentioned.

That the sum of five millions of dollars be appropriated to the carrying into effect the foregoing resolutions; and that the whole or any part of that sum be paid or applied, on warrants drawn in pursuance of such directions as the President may, from time to time, think proper to give to the Secretary of the Treasury.

On motion,

Ordered, That the resolutions be printed for the use of the Senate, and that the consideration thereof be the order of the day for Monday next.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1803.

The message received yesterday from the President of the United States was read, as follows:

*Gentlemen of the Senate and
of the House of Representatives:*

I lay before you a report of the Secretary of State on the case of the Danish brigantine Henrick, taken by a French privateer in 1799, re-taken by an armed vessel of the United States, carried into a British island, and there adjudged to be neutral; but, under an allowance of such salvage and costs as absorbed nearly the whole amount of sales of the vessel and cargo. Indemnification for these losses, occasioned by our officers, is now claimed by the sufferers, supported by the representations of their government. I have no doubt the legislature will give to the subject that just attention and consideration which it is useful as well as honorable to practise in our transactions with other nations, and particularly with one which has observed towards us the most friendly treatment and regard.

TH. JEFFERSON.

February 23, 1803.

Ordered, That the message and papers therein referred to lie for consideration.

The bill, yesterday brought up from the House of Representatives for concurrence, entitled "An act to revive and continue in force an act in addition to an act, entitled 'An act in addition to an act regulating the grants of land appropriated for military services, and for the Society of the United Brethren for propagating the Gospel among the Heathen, and for other purposes,'" was read.
